GUNS SILENT
ON ALCATRAZ;
5 ARE KILLEDTHREE CONVICTS IN
MORGUE AFTER BLOODY RIOT

San Francisco, May 6 (AP)—A sudden quietness had replaced the rattle of gunfire and the crash of grenades behind the massive walls of Alcatraz island prison today.

Three convicts were in the morgue here, the bodies to be consigned to potter's graves unless some relatives should claim them. They escaped from Alcatraz the hard way, on stretchers feet first, after having started last week's bloody rebellion.

A requiem mass was said today for William A. Miller, heroic guard at Alcatraz, who was shot to death by the convicts after he had thrown beyond their reach the key that would have released them from the walls. Mrs. Martha Misorech, Miller's sister in law, flew from Philadelphia to attend the service. The body will be taken to Philadelphia for burial.

The funeral will be held tomorrow for Harold Stites, another guard, shot down in cold blood.

Plaintiff Not There

In federal court the case of "Hubbard vs. Johnson" was called. But Marvin Franklin Hubbard wasn't there to pursue his petition for a writ of habeas corpus to compel Warden James A. Johnston to release him from Alcatraz prison.

Hubbard was one of the three convicts in the morgue. He had petitioned for freedom on the grounds that a confession he signed in Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1942, was obtained by brutal methods.

"Coroner John J. Kingston said he would hold an inquest Friday into the five deaths that occurred during the mad attempt at escape. In addition to the two guards and Hubbard, two other convicts—Bernard Coy and Joseph Paul (Dutch Joe) Cretzer, lost their lives.

In Washington, D. C., Rep. Johnson (R-Calif.) introduced legislation to provide the death penalty for any life-term convict engaging in an attempt to escape a federal prison. Convicts serving less than life terms would have their terms doubled if they tried to break.

U. S. Attorney Frank Hennessy said he considered it his duty to press the federal grand jury for murder indictments against at least three convicts—Clarence Carnes, 19, Oklahoma desperado; Miran Edgar Thompson, 29, who led a Texas policeman, and Sam Shockley, 36, serving life for kidnapping and robbery in Oklahoma.

Conservative Named
Colombia President,
First In 15 Years

Bogota, Colombia, May 6 (AP)—Liberal party spokesmen conceded tonight the election of Mariano Ospina Perez as the first conservative president of Colombia since 1930.

Nearly complete but unofficial returns from yesterday's balloting gave the 55-year-old millionaire businessman and senator a lead of more than 115,000 votes.

The count gave Ospina 461,473 votes to 345,583 for Gabriel Turbay and 291,962 for Jorge Eliecer Gaitan, both candidates of the Liberal party.

Despite the bitterness of the campaign the election was one of the most orderly in the country's history. Three persons had been killed and at least 15 wounded in campaign disorders but there was no actual violence at the polls.

ITALIAN TREATY
JOB IS SHELVEDForeign Ministers Turn To Balkans At Their Paris Meeting

Paris, May 6 (AP)—The foreign ministers' conference, conceding failure, at least temporarily, of its attempts to write an Italian peace treaty, shelved the deadlocked Yugoslav-Italian frontier issue today and decided to begin examination of treaties with former axis satellites in the Balkans.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was reported to have indicated Russian willingness to abandon the Soviet Union's demands for $300,000,000 in reparations from Italy and a dominant position in Tripolitania if Yugoslavians were given Trieste, but U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was said to have been adamant.

Some sources here said that if the conference ends in stalemate, the issue upon which it will founder will be the Yugoslav-Italian question, embracing the dispute over ownership of strategic Trieste, the Americans insist upon Italian sovereignty over the port, the Russians upon Yugoslav ownership of that historic gateway to the central European plains.

The small, informal session today concentrated on the most important issues of the Italian treaty—the Yugoslav-Italian dispute, Italian colonies and reparations.

Grand Rapids City
Manager Is Ousted

Grand Rapids, May 6 (AP)—The Grand Rapids city commission tonight ousted Walter J. Sack, city manager since 1942, and named Benjamin J. Buikema, assistant superintendent of schools, as his successor.

The commission also named F. Roland Allaben, Grand Rapids lawyer, as city attorney to succeed Ganson F. Tabbart who resigned after holding the post for 26 years.

Edward Stevens, manager of a motor freight company's credit division, was named city treasurer to succeed Frank V. Smith. Stevens at one time was controller for the state liquor control commission.

Sack was replaced as city manager after a public disagreement with Mayor George M. Welsh on city administration policies.

Judge, 82, Believes
Degree Is Too Late

Cadillac, May 6 (AP)—Wexford County Circuit Judge Fred S. Lamb indicated today he thought his job held little future.

The 82-year-old jurist, who has been on the Wexford bench since 1909, was offered an honorary degree of doctor of law from Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti at its commencement June 9. He was graduated from the school in 1887.

Judge Lamb, however, said it came "a little late in life to be of any value" and that he does not believe he will accept.

DIVIDENDS CUT BY GM

New York, May 6 (AP)—Directors of General Motors Corp. today cut the dividend on the common stock to 50 cents a share from 75 cents previously paid. The dividend is payable June 10 to holders of record May 17.

Dividends of 75 cents a share have been paid quarterly on the common stock since March 1944. In 1943 the company made four payments of 50 cents a share each.

Aid For Armed Forces
Of Sister Republics
Proposed By President

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO
Washington, May 6 (AP)—President Truman called upon Congress today to authorize full-fledged military collaboration with other American nations as a new instrument for peace.

He transmitted a bill under which the United States would assist in "the training, organization and equipment" of the armed forces of sister republics to the south.

The president emphasized at the same time that the legislation "could be extended also to Canada, whose cooperation with the United States in matters affecting their common defense is of particular importance."

Care will be taken, he said, not to place weapons "in the hands of any groups who may use them to oppose a peaceful and democratic principles."

The bill has been drawn up primarily to enable the American nations to carry out their obligations to cooperate in the maintenance of inter-American peace and security under the charter and the Act of Chapultepec which is intended to be supplanted by a permanent inter-American treaty, the presidential message said.

Simultaneously, Mr. Truman asked Congress for a war department appropriation of $7,246,335, 200 to finance its operations during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The estimates contemplate a reduction of the army from 1,500,000 officers and men on June 30 this year to 1,070,000 a year later.

They allow $500,000,000 for government and relief in occupied areas, $200,000,000 for the atomic service and $182,782,000 for the reactivation of the national guard and organized reserves.

Arab leaders were reported preparing charges to be presented to the United Nations international court of justice that the report violated Britain's League of Nations mandate.

From all the Arab states came pledges of support for the higher committee's battle against the report, which recommends immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews.

A committee spokesman said telegrams also were received from the presidents of Syria and Lebanon and from Mustapha Nahas Pasha, head of Egypt's Wafdist party. Embassies from Iraq and Transjordan were said to have brought similar promises.

Arab Catholics here were reported to have cabled protests to King George VI of England, Pope Pius XII, Prime Minister Stalin, President Felix Gouin of France and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China, asserting that acceptance of the committee recommendations would mean Arabs, including Christians, eventually would be forced out of the birthplace of Christianity.

COAL SUPPLY
RATIONING TO BE RESTOREDSTRIKE SHORTAGE
TO BE FELT FOR MANY MONTHS

Washington, May 6 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Krug said today the soft coal strike probably will necessitate a return to wartime coal rationing even if the miners return to work soon.

The strike has caused such a deficit in the fuel supply, he said at a news conference, that its effects will be felt for many months.

Under rationing, deliveries to dealers would be limited to probably 80 percent of their normal purchases, and they in turn would distribute the reduced supplies to their customers.

A law making it a crime to conspire to halt public utility service, was proposed by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) as the capital watched for a White House move to end the strike, now in its sixth week.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach discussed the crisis for more than an hour with President Truman this afternoon.

Emerging from the conference, in which Reconversion Director John W. Snyder and John R. Steelman, presidential labor adviser, also participated, Schwellenbach declined comment.

The secretary looked serious as he groped his way out of a lobby darkened by the removal of eight 300-watt globes—part of a White House move to conserve coal.

A "complete breakdown" of the nation's utility and health services is threatening, Lucas told the Senate. He expressed the opinion that under Section 19 of the Criminal Code, it is already unlawful to "stifle the economy of the nation" but he said he would offer a resolution to remove any doubt on that score.

Senator Maybank (D-S.C.) broke in to say that if the strike continues 700,000 textile workers will be out of work soon for lack of fuel to run the factories.

More Trains Banned

With the crippling effects of the strike spreading, the government took a new move to conserve coal. The Office of Defense Transportation prohibited the movement of circus and carnival trains, effective May 10.

John L. Lewis, head of the striking United Mine Workers, continued to preserve the silence he has maintained for several days. He has summoned his 250-member policy committee to a session here tomorrow.

While government-sponsored conferences continued without producing a settlement, coal operators spokesmen and other business leaders testified before a House judiciary subcommittee in behalf of legislation outlawing the payment to unions of royalties on goods produced. Lewis has asked a 10-cent-per-ton royalty to finance a health and welfare fund for the miners.

Edward R. Burke, counsel for the Southern Coal Operators Association, told the subcommittee that such a bill, if enacted, would go a long way toward settlement of the coal strike, now in its sixth week.

Some government move to end the strike was expected this week, but some officials considered it likely the government seizure would be delayed as long as possible in view of some doubts whether the miners would return to work immediately under government control.

The operators' negotiating committee held a caucus this morning, after which the strike conferences were recessed until this afternoon. During the recess, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach went into a huddle with Special Conciliators Edward F. McGrady and Paul W. Fuller.

President David Behnke of the AFL Air Line Pilots Association said "there is nothing to indicate" federal intervention. Earlier he had said presidential intervention might delay the walkout.

TWA pilots seek an increase in maximum annual wage rates from $13,000 to $16,000 for pilots of four-engine planes. They also ask shorter hours and other adjustments.

The Railway Labor Act, administered by the National (Railway) Mediation Board, governs air line labor disputes, presidential appointment of a fact-finding panel at request of the board could automatically delay any strike.

Russian Evacuation
Of Iran Unverified
Ambassador Reports

New York, May 6 (AP)—Iranian Ambassador Hassan Ali declared to the United Nations security council today that "interference" in Azerbaijan province had prevented Iranian officials from checking on the status of Russian army evacuations into the Soviet Union.

He said in a memorandum that Soviet troops were known to have evacuated completely four other northern provinces ahead of the midnight deadline for their withdrawal under the terms of the April 5 Soviet-Iranian agreement.

He said Iran had been "informed through other sources" that the evacuation of Soviet troops from Azerbaijan had been going ahead and "it is said will have been completed before 7 May 1946," but he emphasized that "these reports have not been verified" by Iranian officials.

Two Shot Through
Window: Detroit
Pleads Innocence

Detroit, May 6 (AP)—Bruno Caruso, 44-year-old factory worker, accused of the shooting of two men, pleaded innocent when arraigned on a first degree murder charge today before Justice of the Peace Alex Fitzgerald at suburban Allen Park.

Allen Park Police Chief Wilford Riley said Caruso had admitted firing the shots which killed the two as they sat with his divorced wife and others at a card party early Sunday.

The victims were Joseph Tate, 30, a cousin of Caruso's former wife, Mary, and George S. Moore, 34. Riley said Moore accidentally fell into the line of fire as Caruso aimed at Tate and Mrs. Caruso from outside a kitchen window.

CITIES PREPARE
FOR BROWNOUTDetroit Edison Requests
Revival Of Wartime
Fuel Measures

Detroit, May 6 (AP)—A brownout for Eastern Michigan cities moved nearer a reality today with announcement by the Detroit Edison Company that it would seek restoration of wartime brownout ordinances in a move to conserve fuel.

The company plans to ask that the ordinances be adopted in all the communities it serves.

Enforcement provisions of an ordinance proposed by Edison are modeled after a 1920 Detroit statute, said Angus McVay, vice president and sales manager of Edison.

McVay said the ordinance includes these principal provisions:

- (1) Prohibits outdoor advertising and promotion.
- (2) Prohibits display advertising except where necessary to conduct business activities.
- (3) Prohibits show window lighting except where necessary for inside illumination.
- (4) Prohibits outdoor decorations and ornamental lighting.
- (5) Prohibits theater marquee lighting in excess of 60 watts.
- (6) Prohibits outdoor sign lighting except for directional signs as traffic control, police signs, terminals and hospitals.

The ordinance, if enacted, contains a clause placing them in effect immediately and for an indefinite period but also contains a provision providing that the mayor may suspend enforcement if the national situation improves.

PULITZER PRIZE LIST ANNOUNCED

Scranton, Pa., Times Is Cited For 15-Year-Old U. S. Court Probe

New York, May 6 (AP)—A 15-year-old investigation of judicial practices in a Pennsylvania federal court—resulting in the indictment of a former judge last September—won a Pulitzer prize today for the Scranton, Pa., Times.

The award, a $500 gold medal for "meritorious public service," largely was the work of one man, Assistant City Editor George H. Martin, the Times said.

He was a 23-year-old federal court reporter when he started digging into the case 15 years ago.

Nine writers, a cartoonist and a composer won $500 cash Pulitzer prizes for outstanding 1945 performances. Columbia university trustees announced.

William L. Laurence of the New York Times won the award for "a distinguished example of a reporter's work" with his eyewitness account of the atom-bombing of Nagasaki and subsequent articles on the development, production and significance of the atomic bomb.

Hodding Carter of the Delta Democrat—Times, Greenville, Miss., won the 1945 award for editorials "on the subject of racial, religious and economic intolerance."

A cartoon showing a Russian bear and an American eagle facing across a deep chasm of "irresponsible statements" and "deepening suspicion" won the 1945 cartoon prize for Bruce Russell of the Los Angeles Times.

The outstanding achievement in the field of "telegraphic reporting on national affairs" was Edward A. Harris' series of articles on the Tidewater oil situation for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, culminating in the withdrawal of Edwin W. Pauley's nomination as undersecretary of the Navy.

Homer Bigart, New York Herald Tribune war correspondent in the Pacific, won the $500 award for "a distinguished example of telegraphic reporting on international affairs."

The Pulitzer awards, instituted in 1917 under the will of the late Joseph A. Pulitzer who left $2,000,000 to endow Columbia's school of journalism, also included:

Playwrights Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsay for "State of the Union," best original American play.

Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., for "The Age of Jackson," best book dealing with American history.

The late Mrs. Linnie Marsh Wolfe for "Son Of The Wilderness," a biography of John Muir, Mrs. Wolfe died in September, 1945.

Leo Sowerby for "The Canticle Of The Sun," best musical composition by an American composer.

For the fourth time since 1917, No American novel of "sufficient excellence" was submitted and no prize was awarded. The Poetry prize was omitted for the same reason, for the first time since that division was created in 1922.

Joe Rosenthal, who as an Associated Press photographer, won a Pulitzer prize with his picture of the Iwo Jima flag raising by U. S. Marines last year. Since the picture was made in 1945, no additional award for 1945 news photography was announced.

Members of the advisory board who made the recommendations for this year's awards were Dr. Frank D. Fackenthal, acting president of Columbia university; Sevelton Brown of the Providence, R. I., Journal; Robert Choate of the Boston Herald; Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press; Walter M. Harrison of the Oklahoma City Oklahoman; Frank R. Funk Didn't Know Nazis Banked Gold Taken From Teeth Nuernberg, May 6 (AP)—Walter Funk admitted today that S. S. (Elite Guard) troops had deposited gold taken from Nazi concentration camp victims in the Reichsbank when he was its president, but denied that he knew the gold was extracted from the victims' mouths.

When Asst. U. S. Pros. Thomas Dodd during cross-examination referred to the practice of S. S. troops in removing gold fillings from their victims' teeth to be taken to the Reichsbank, the little moon-faced defendant told the international military tribunal:

"I don't know anything about it. I only know there was a deposit by the S. S. I thought it was gold taken from the inmates of concentration camps, mostly gold coins."

The former Nazi economics minister and Reichsbank president sought to prove he was only chief of Nazi civilian economics, but Dodd introduced a letter showing that Funk sought control over war economics as well.

Bubble Gum Boom Blows Up Prices

Spokane, May 6, (AP)—The traffic in bubble gum, an "inflationary item" at best, has been stretched all out of proportion by the law of supply and demand.

Blowhard leaders of the small fry set revealed today that one-penny sticks of bubble gum are selling for as much as 25 cents each on their expanding "grey market."

The kids here have not appealed to the OPA as a group of eastern youngsters did. Merchants still sell the gum at the penny ceiling, the youngsters report. The big bulge in the price line appears later when blowers and non-blowers alike start re-selling.

The gum is demanded especially by the skilled amateur entertainers who created four to eight-inch bubbles.

IVA KITCHELL PLEASES CROWD

Large Audience Enjoys Dance Recital At Junior High

An evening of sparkling entertainment was presented by Iva Kitchell last night before a large crowd who attended the fifth of the Town Hall series at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium.

Miss Kitchell, who combines imagination with a marvelous sense of humor and an excellent dance technique, presented a hilarious program of dance and pantomime which completely captivated her audience.

One of the highlights of the evening was "Ze Ballet," with Iva Kitchellova as the prima ballerina, assisted by the Imperial Invisible Ballet company. Years of dancing with the Russian Ballet and the Chicago Opera Ballet enabled Miss Kitchell to produce a devastating satire on temperamental soloists, as well as to perform the difficult arabesques, pirouettes and enchaînés required of a ballet dancer.

Particularly amusing to anyone whose daughter has taken part in a school May festival, or whose female cousin has studied "interpretive dancing," was Miss Kitchell's presentation of "The Searf Dance" and "The Garland Dance."

Also outstanding on last night's program were "Non-Objective," a brilliant and smooth satire on the school of dancing as exemplified by Martha Graham; an interesting and original dance, "Mineral, Vegetable, and Animal," and "Chorus Girl, Vintage of 1920."

Between the more strenuous numbers, the indefatigable Miss Kitchell appeared in humorous pantomimes such as "Maise at the Movies," "Two Sisters" and "Before the Ball," with the last number complemented by an encore, "After the Ball."

A warm and engaging personality, the ability to convey an idea with the flick of an eye-lash, plus a keen perception of the absurdities of life make Miss Kitchell one of the most delightful and charming artists to appear here in quite a while.

Contributing to her performance last night was the excellent and perfectly timed accompaniment of Harvey Brown at the piano.

Preceding the program, the high school string ensemble, composed of eleven junior and senior high school girls, presented a half-hour concert, under the direction of Albert Shomento.

Hoover Says Food Needed By Japan To Curb Disorder
Tokyo, May 6 (AP)—Herbert Hoover today stressed the need for 600,000 tons of food for Japan by July 1 if occupation forces are not to be endangered by disorders and the disease that follows starvation.

The ex-president told a press conference that without food imports, all Japan "will be on a ration little better than that which the Germans gave to Buchenwald and Belsen concentration camps."

Hoover, on a world food survey, said in a statement that the whole world food situation would be "greatly helped if Russia would release to China and Korea a part of the foodstuffs they have secured in Manchuria."

Philadelphia Judge Under Consideration For Supreme Court

Philadelphia, May 7, (Tuesday) (AP)—U. S. Circuit Judge Herbert F. Goodrich, of Philadelphia, is under consideration for appointment to the supreme court, the Philadelphia Record said today.

The department of justice has been asked to give President Truman and his advisers a report on Goodrich's background, the Record said in a dispatch from its Washington bureau. The vacancy in the high tribunal was caused by the recent death of Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone.

(In Washington, the department of justice last night declined to comment on the Record report.)

Judge Goodrich was graduated from Harvard Law school in 1914. He taught law at both the University of Iowa and the University of Michigan. He came to the University of Pennsylvania as law dean in 1929 and two years later was made a vice president of that university.

A life-long Democrat, Judge Goodrich has been a member of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals since 1940. He will be 57 years old on July 29 and is a native of Minnesota.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 6 (AP)—For the fourth consecutive session the May rye contract advanced the permitted limit of 5 cents in grain trading today. Covering by previous short sellers was again the market's main stimulus, sending the May delivery to another new all time high for any rye future.

A strong undertone also developed in active oats contracts. September closed at 83 cents, the ceiling on all oats deliveries, and December finished on a split quotation, 82 7/8 to 83. Near-by oats deliveries were unchanged at ceilings, as were wheat, corn, barley and deferred rye contracts.

Rains were reported in some sections of the winter wheat belt and good moisture was received throughout central Illinois.

Visible supply of the bread cereal decreased 2,301,000 bushels to 15,239,000 bushels this week.

A total of 460 cars of cash corn arrived here, practically all of which was government owned corn purchased under the 30 cent bonus payment plan.

MARKET DOWN IN 5 SESSIONS

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, May 6 (AP)—The stock market, on average, made it five losing sessions in a row today although pressure was lacking and a number of issues negotiated last-minute recoveries.

As in the past week, liquidation was blamed mainly on the coal strike and other labor rifts which threaten production in numerous industries and, consequently, postwar profits.

Trends generally were downward from the start. In the final hour, however, a smattering of gains appeared among rails and special issues. Transfers of 1,000,000 shares compared with 1,000,000 Friday. Of 951 issues registering, 600 fell and 166 advanced. The Associated Press 40-stock composite was off 5 of a point at 71.6, where it was 2 1/2 points under the 15-year peak established April 20.

Montgomery Ward, reporting record sales for April and the first quarter, converted a 2-point loss into a gain of 7 1/2 at $95.37. Burlington Mills, on a lifted dividend, was up 1 1/4 at $49.

Improved Southern Pacific. Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Western Union, U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft and General Electric.

Casualties included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Telephone.

CARRIERS IN SLUMP

New York, May 6 (AP)—Quotations on rails dropped a little further in today's bond market as buyers refused all but meager support.

Some of the carriers established new lows for the year with losses ranging to more than two points.

Sales of only $2,440,000 measured the slowest session in more than a month. This compared with $3,730,000 Friday.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails hit a new 1946 low at 103.1.

Losing lower were Northern Pacific 3s at 85, Denver & Rio Grande Western 3s at 83, Erie 3 1/8s "F" at 102, Florida East Coast 5s at 81, Missouri Pacific 3s "F" at 91 1/2, and Frisco 4 1/2s at 44 1/2.

A handful of liens in the higher price brackets held out against the trend, among them bonds of Union Pacific, Western Pacific, Southern Railway, and Southern Pacific.

U. S. governments were shaded a bit in the stock exchange and over-the-counter market, with the Victory Loan 2 1/2s priced at 103 13/32 bid in the latter. Business was small.

4-H ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETS

Program For 4-H Clubs In Upper Peninsula Is Discussed

The revision of the 4-H Club department in the premium book for the Upper Peninsula state fair to be held in Escanaba this year, and other topics were discussed yesterday by the 4-H Advisory Council for the U. P. at a meeting held in the courthouse at Escanaba.

Members attending the second meeting of the recently formed advisory council were Mrs. Gladys Mercer, 4-H Club agent for Schoolcraft and Alger counties; Miss Katherine Potter, home demonstration agent for Dickinson county; Miss Edith Johnson and Orville Walker, Marquette, assistant state club leaders; County Agricultural Agents Joseph Heirman of Manistique, John Moilinen of Ontonagon, and E. A. Wenner of Escanaba. Although not a member of the council, George S. McIntyre of Chatham also attended as a counselor.

New 4-H Club projects to be included in the revised department for the state fair premium book include food preparation, conservation, electrical, good grooming, personal accounts and other extra premiums.

A new department was added for the display of home extension projects. Each county having home makers extension clubs will be invited to exhibit displays.

Harold P. Lindsay of Escanaba, U. P. state fair secretary, and George Schram, state fair grounds caretaker, were present at the meeting.

The 4-H advisory council also established county quotas for members attending Camp Shaw at Chatham this year, which can accommodate a total of 525 persons. The number seeking to attend always exceeds the accommodations, and county quotas are necessary. Camp Shaw will open August 5 and will continue through August 9.

Telescopes To Be Able To Spy Far

New York, (AP)—Electronic telescopes of the future that will operate on a television principle are predicted by O. H. Caldwell, past president of the Astronomers Association of the Hayden Planetarium, New York City.

Radar impulses sent through space, much farther than the recent radar signal to the moon and back, would be the basis of these telescopes. This astronomical radar would pick up details of distant planets and these could be translated to visible screens. Mr. Caldwell said it may be possible also to combine electronic telescopes and television to watch eclipses of the sun regardless of weather conditions.

Chicago Motor Club and the Automobile Club of Michigan have joined forces to help bring about a Chicago - Detroit Expressway, permanently linking those two cities with a modern, up-to-date super-highway. Traffic surveys have shown that present facilities linking Detroit and Chicago are carrying from 5,000 to 10,000 vehicles a day.

MONTGOMERY WARD

JUST A YEAR AGO TODAY—Knowing full well that Germany had surrendered, yet lacking official news, the world waited on May 7, 1945. The premature story of the Reims scene touched off celebrations such as the above in New York. But many cities, notably Washington, waited on—for the official word (NEA Photo.)

Virtually Entire U. P. Now Using Fast Time

Except for Menominee county and Kingsford in Dickinson county, virtually the entire Upper Peninsula of Michigan is now operating on Eastern Standard Time or Central Daylight Saving Time, which is the same thing, a survey conducted by the Daily Press revealed yesterday.

Norway, in Dickinson county, continued on Central Standard Time yesterday but its city council, meeting last night, was expected to vote for immediate changeover to Daylight Saving Time to conform to Iron Mountain. The situation in the Iron Mountain area, however, has been materially complicated by the fact that the village of Kingsford, through its village commission, voted to remain on Central Standard Time. Many of the employees at the Ford plant in Kingsford reside in Iron Mountain.

The Copper Country and Chippewa, Mackinac, Luce and Schoolcraft counties operate on Eastern Standard Time throughout the year, so the problem of Daylight saving, or "fast" time, did not affect them at all.

Delta and Marquette counties moved to Central Daylight Time a week ago, along with Gogebic, Iron and Ontonagon counties. Alger county and a portion of Dickinson county changed to Daylight

Saving Time this week. Menominee county, however, continued on Central Standard

Chicago String Ensemble To Play Wednesday Night

Thirteen members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will present a string ensemble program as the last number of the Town Hall series at the Wm. W. Oliver auditorium Wednesday evening. In addition, Winifred Hekman, contralto, 1945 winner at the Chicago-Land Music Festival, will be guest soloist.

Conductor of the ensemble is Rudolph Reiners, who has been playing in the first violin section of the Chicago Symphony orchestra for 20 years. He also has been affiliated with the Philharmonic String quartette, Hans Lange Chamber orchestra and the Chicago String quartette.

Other members also have a fine background of musical experience. Mr. Charbulak, the concertmaster of the ensemble, has been with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for the past 22 years. He has appeared on many radio programs as soloist and is known for the excellent tone of his fine violin.

Mr. Johnson is now in his ninth year with the symphony orchestra. Many radio appearances are credited to his work as solo artist.

Mr. Turner is one of the newer members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, this being his third year, but previous experience shows that he came to Chicago from the St. Louis Symphony with a record of five years with that group.

Mr. Martinson has a record of 25 years with the Chicago Symphony. He is noted as an instructor of unusual ability and taught many years at Interlochen Summer Music Camp.

Mr. Zika has just returned from military service and resumes his place in the ranks of the Chicago

Symphony Orchestra after seven years of previous activity with the orchestra.

Mr. Hector completes the violin section of the ensemble and is also one of the newer members of the Chicago orchestra. After doing concert work in the east he joined the Chicago orchestra three years ago.

The two viola players are Messrs. Fiala and Roda, with the former having 24 years of excellent service in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and the latter is now completing his tenth year with the same group.

Mr. Trnka, cellist, though young, has 19 years of service to his credit with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. He is often engaged as a soloist with the smaller symphony orchestras in the midwest, such as Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Aurora, etc., and only recent was soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in a Saturday "Popular" concert.

The other cellist is Mr. Zedeler now in his 20th year with the Chicago Symphony. He is asked to be principal cellist with many midwest orchestras in their concerts. The South Bend orchestra engaged him for the past six years in that capacity.

Mr. Hough, double bass, is now in his third year with the Chicago Symphony. Previous to this, he was with the well-known Palmer House ensemble directed by Ralph Ginsburg. He was with the latter group for six years.

Fur Breeding Expands

SOMETHING new is being added to the rapidly growing fur farming industry of Delta county—the raising of chinchillas, reputed to be the world's most valuable fur.

Fur farming was established in Delta county by fox ranchers. Later mink raising was introduced and proved even more successful. The fur industry has grown tremendously in this area in recent years. The Upper Peninsula climate has proved ideal for fur farming and the industry is bringing many thousands of dollars into the area.

Whether the introduction of chinchillas into the Upper Peninsula family of fur breeds will be successful can be determined by time alone, but the prospects are hopeful. If the experiment proves successful, it may open an extremely valuable new market to Upper Peninsula fur ranchers. For the time being chinchillas are being produced solely for breeding purposes and none are being pelted for their fur. There just are not enough of the animals to warrant pelting, but this will develop in time.

Fur farming has served to supplement the incomes of many Delta county farmers, who have gone into the business on a part-time basis. It has become a full time proposition for others.

Chinchillas need not and probably never will supplant mink as an Upper Peninsula fur product. Farmers who dislike the handling of mink, a rather vicious animal even when domesticated, however, may find chinchillas raising more pleasurable. They are docile, very clean and are vegetarians. Their food habits do not require refrigerated storage space, an expensive feature of mink raising.

Chasing Travel Dollars

THERE will be many travel dollars rolling around this summer and others to follow, but there is going to be keen competition as various resort regions and states go after this money. In this post-war era, there is also a spirited race for new industries and agricultural markets.

As a result, many states are increasing their advertising budgets. Utah is spending $300,000 of public funds to publicize its recreational resources, industrial advantages and farm products. The budget in New York is $400,000 and in Florida the state appropriation is $500,000. All together, 39 states are using state funds for these purposes.

Michigan is included, of course, for the legislature some years ago recognized the wisdom of promoting the state's second largest industry, one in which the total spending approximates 300 million dollars annually. What the state spends for tourist publicity, however, it usually gets back in the increased gasoline tax collections. In addition, virtually every business enterprise throughout the state derives some material benefit.

Radio Curb Planned

SOME congressmen are planning to introduce legislation to restrict radio broadcasting by commentators and officials of governmental bureaus and departments.

The lawmakers are peeved because certain officials and commentators have taken to the radio to oppose their action on various pieces of legislation, particularly the OPA extension bill. The legislators complain that the "bureaucrats" are able to get more time on the air than they can.

What the congressmen are trying to do is to deny the right of free speech to other American citizens. They apparently think they are the only individuals who should enjoy the right to criticize. They freely use their privilege to have their speeches printed in the Congressional Record at great expense to the taxpayers, but they would prohibit others to use the radio to criticize them. The next logical step would be to pass a law to restrict the newspaper publication of editorial and news criticism of members of congress.

The Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., has just distributed free copies of The Constitution of the United States to the newspapers of the country. We would suggest that the congressmen save their copies and read them carefully.

Farm and Industry

THE world's largest potato alcohol manufacturing plant began operations in the famous Aroostook spud-raising country in Maine last week.

About 3,500 barrels of potatoes will be used daily at the plant, according to the announcement by Clark Distillery, Ltd. This is a lot of spuds. Incidentally, these are cull potatoes, for Maine producers long ago discovered that the way to acquire a good reputation for their product was to grade them carefully and put only the high quality tubers on the market.

The alcohol plant presents itself as an ideal way for Maine growers to dispose of their cull potatoes, and is another example of how industry can utilize the products of the soil. This is meant in no way to suggest that the Upper Peninsula should engage in the manufacture of potato alcohol. While this region may get yields per acre that would make Maine growers envious, our total acreage devoted to potatoes and consequently our total production are still only a small fraction of the large yield in the Aroostook country.

52-20 Extension?

THE payment of unemployment compensation to war veterans will run out in large volume about the first of next year and pressure is already being applied for extension of the $29 a week readjustment allowance beyond the present 52-week limitation.

Coupled with the mounting pressure for extension of the unemployment payments to veterans is the probability of a labor shortage by the year's end, a prediction already made by the Veterans Administration. The farm labor situation is already acute and at the time that the world food outlook is extremely critical.

The unemployment payments are supposed to stop if a veteran refuses a proffered job, but the USES is not at all hard boiled about the matter.

The seriousness of the situation will be keenly felt when the 52-week payments run out for hundred of thousands of servicemen—1,700,000 are now drawing the benefits.

Congressmen are already squirming at the squeeze they'll be in next year when caught between the two very effective pressure groups—veterans and farmers.

CAP'N BOB.

(Grand Rapids Press)

To the younger generation, Robert Abram Bartlett—known almost exclusively as "Cap'n Bob"—was probably the most familiar of all Arctic explorers. The subject of many motion picture "shorts," Bartlett looked, acted and sounded like a man of the north. His weather-beaten face and thoroughly unmusical voice were just what anyone would expect in a man who had spent the greater part of his 70 years in the frozen regions of the earth.

His career as an Arctic adventurer began in 1897, when he spent the winter with Admiral Robert E. Peary at Cape DuRville, Kane basin. In 1909, as skipper of the "Roosevelt," he accompanied Peary on the trip which resulted in the discovery of the north pole. Bartlett didn't quite get to the pole, however, for he party which he led on foot after ice floes had blocked further progress of the expedition by ship had to turn back when but a few miles from the goal. But his work on that expedition made him famous, and he never tired of recounting the details from the lecture platform or "movie set." When he died a few days ago it had been 11 years since he last sailed into the northern seas, but his enthusiasm for the far north remained undiminished.

The Arctic explorer who spent years in outfitting an expedition and a year or more in carrying it out is now definitely of the past; nowadays giant planes make it possible to explore vast greater areas, with less hardship and more satisfactory results, than was ever possible in Bartlett's Arctic days. A trip to the north pole no longer seems a daring feat, or even an especially exciting venture; but accounts and stories of the Peary expedition and other early Arctic explorations will probably never lose their flavor—and Cap'n Bob did much to make that so.

SOME FINE POINTS OF PRONUNCIATIONS

From a California radio announcer: In reading the news, I pronounce Iran as "ee-RAHN." The adjective Iranian I pronounce "ee-RAHN-ee-un." But a fellow announcer has corrected me, stating that the adjective should be "eye-RAY-nee-un." I do not get it.

Answer: Your friend is right for this reason: Iran is a Persian word, and its Persian pronunciation is ee-RAHN.

But Iranian is not Persian—it is an English adjective formed by adding -ian ("of or pertaining to") to the name Iran. Iranian, then, is given the English values: eye-RAY-nee-un.

There are other similar usages. For example, the native pronunciation of Chile is CHEE-lay. But the English adjective, Chilean, is pronounced CHILL-ee-un.

From an Ohio teacher: The word soot is heard hereabouts with three pronunciations: (1) to rhyme with "bott," (2) to rhyme with "foit," (3) to rhyme with "but." Will you please discuss the word?

Answer: Dictionary consensus shows the rhyme with "foit" to be the most frequently heard in both America and England. All dictionaries list the "foit" rhyme as the first or only choice. A few show the "bott" rhyme as second choice. But "soot," to rhyme with "but" is considered dialectal.

On the other hand, best usage favors

Washington—The volume of mail flooding into the Senate on the price-control issue reminds old-timers on Capitol Hill of the days when Roosevelt measures stirred feeling throughout the country to fever pitch. As one veteran in the Senate mailroom put it, nothing quite like this flood has been seen since the court-packing fight in 1937.

Some of it, of course, is propaganda mail inspired by the powerful organizations fighting to keep OPA alive. But a lot of it expresses the deep concern of plain people everywhere that removal of controls will be an invitation to immediate price increases of 30 and 40 per cent in food, shelter and clothing.

Because they have heard this stirring at the grass roots, some senators have changed their tune. They talk now about the need to continue OPA with "reasonable" modifications.

—LIKE RICE CHRISTIANS—

They talk so plausibly. But those who are working to get OPA continued without too many crippling amendments remain skeptical. The new converts to price control sound a little like the rice Christians who get religion from our missionaries so long as the free rice holds out.

The "reasonable" amendments may, in fact, be so drawn as to cut the heart out of the OPA. The danger is that the new converts to OPA may succeed in putting over a bill which seems to assure continuance of adequate controls. Yet in practice it will prove to be a hollow sham.

OPA administrator Paul Porter has the Kentuckian's faculty for telling an apt story. To several groups of Senators he has expressed the fear that the kind of bill finally to come out of Congress will be like the bottle of whiskey which a plantation master asked the man how he liked the whiskey and was told that it was all right.

"What do you mean it was all right?" the boss asked.

"Well, if it was any better, you wouldn't have given it to me, and if it was any worse, I couldn't have drunk it."

While the bill that comes out of Congress may wear a gloss of good intentions, it may be an unworkable law as far as its real price control goes. If that is the end result, those who are now trying to hold what is left of the price line will certainly get out. In other words, they will call the congressional bluff.

—LACK OF LEADERSHIP—

One difficulty in the Senate is in generalship. While the forces favoring realistic price control lost the battle in the House, they kept the record straight. These forces in the House had an effective general in Representative Mike Monroney of Oklahoma.

Monroney had made a thorough study of the price-control law and how it worked. He could recognize a Trojan horse amendment a mile away. The Oklahoman, who recently won the Collier award for his work in the House, let none of the phony amendments get by without a challenge, even though he couldn't stop them.

No general with comparable background and ability is available in the Senate. Chairman Robert F. Wagner of the Senate Banking and Currency committee has had a long siege of illness. At 69, he lacks the vigor and the initiative for such a trying assignment.

Some of the veteran Democrats on the committee are more or less open enemies of price control. They can be expected to come up with the kind of amendment which would leave the OPA an empty shell.

Early in January, economic stabilizer Chester Bowles foresaw the situation which exists today. At that time, he was urging action on OPA renewal by the end of February at the latest. He foresaw that, if it was allowed to go close to the June 30 deadline, a host of new troubles would arise. His direct prophecies are coming true. For one thing, valued members of OPA's staff are resigning, since their future seems so dubious. Far more serious, the holding and hoarding of goods has taken a new focus—in anticipation of the destruction or emasculation of OPA.

The Senate has a chance to make up for the failures of the House. House members who helped to chop the OPA into little pieces have now seen which way the wind of public opinion is blowing. They should be in a mood to accept corrections from the Senate. Those letters are pouring in from people who know about the cost of maintaining a family.

the "oo" sound of "boot, proof" in root, hoof, roof. Likewise, room should rhyme with "boom."

Usage is divided on the vowel sound of coop and hoop. But it seems safe to say that the rhyme with "loop, stoop" predominates in standard American.

From Mrs. M. H. B., Buffalo: Am I wrong in pronouncing "pin" and "pen" alike? My husband says it's my Southern accent.

Answer: Yes, "pin" for pen, "min" for men, "minny" for many, is a Southern trait, but it is considered dialectal even in the South. Careful speakers will pronounce such words with the "eh" or flat "e" sound of "met, tell, bed." By all means avoid saying "minny min pay a pretty pinny for fountain pins."

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE—It has come to be accepted as truth that labor has a right to strike against its employer to achieve proper working conditions, reasonable wages, and fair employment practices. Just when a strike becomes an act against the welfare of the people as a whole, rather than against the individual employer, is a problem that has President Truman worried at this moment. The people as a whole, incidentally, is the government in this democracy of ours.

Not for the sake of argument, but simply as a matter of speculation, we might consider what would happen if the right to strike were carried to its ultimate conclusion.

THE FARMER—Suppose the farmer decided that he wanted to go on strike to obtain higher prices for his products—these prices representing wages for his hours of work. Within a short time the food processors would clamor, the retailers would be staring at empty shelves—and the consumer would be going hungry. The farmer, meanwhile, would have more than plenty for his own needs. He would not suffer, yet everyone else would.

THE BARBER—Suppose the barbers of America, by mutual agreement, decided that they would close up shop and go on strike. In a short time American men would be a shaggy crew indeed—but the barbers could cut each others hair.

THE ELECTRICIANS—Suppose the electricians of the United States decided to go on strike. In a short time the vast network of electric utilities would break down for lack of maintenance. In their own ingenious way, the electricians might establish individual power plants to supply their own needs. They would not suffer.

THE SCHOOL TEACHERS—Suppose the school teachers (notoriously underpaid) decided to go on strike and left their students sitting in the class rooms. The school teachers could go into other lines of work. They would not suffer. But the children of the nation would.

THE SERVICEMAN—Suppose the man who repairs your automobile, your vacuum cleaner, your radio, your washing machine, your piece of farm equipment—suppose he went on strike. He could repair his own car, vacuum cleaner, radio, washing machine—but you couldn't. He would not suffer, but you would.

THE CLERKS—Suppose the clerical help all over the country went on strike. Your order for underwear or tractors would go unanswered. The doctor would not receive his stethoscope from the medical supply house. The store managers would be unable to serve their trade. The clerks could get along, somehow. Other folks couldn't.

THE CLOCK MAKERS—Suppose all the men and women who are employed in the manufacture of clocks and watches, and those who keep timepieces in repair, decided to go on strike. Within a Manufacturing, transportation, heating, and the production of electric and steam power would cease. The miners would not suffer more than others, but the effect of their action would have national and international effect.

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE

Q. If a man is released from service on grounds of dependency, is he entitled to mustering-out pay or does this type of discharge bar him from this benefit?

A. This type of discharge does not bar him from receiving mustering out pay, if he is otherwise qualified to receive it.

Q. Is a woman who has been drawing a pension as the unmarried widow of a deceased veteran, but remarried and had the marriage annulled, entitled to have her pension reinstated after the annulment?

A. Under the rules and regulations of the Veterans Administration, a remarried widow who has had her second marriage annulled may be entitled to benefits under the law administered by the Veterans Administration. However, in each case the facts must be adjudicated individually and so it is advised that the widow make application at the nearest Contact Office of the Veterans Administration.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. What is the difference between Turkish coffee and coffee made in the usual way?

A. For Turkish coffee finely pulverized coffee is used. One tablespoon of coffee for each demitasse is mixed with an equal amount of granulated sugar. When the water is boiling rapidly, the coffee is added and when it looks frothy, remove from the fire. In a moment or two it is boiled up again and repeated a third time. It should be thick and foamy and is served at once without cream. It is too strong to serve in cups any larger than demitasse, and is usually served as the last course at dinner or luncheon or as a refreshment in the evening, with small cakes.

Q. How many times have Col. E. R. Bradley's horses been victorious in the Kentucky Derby?

A. Four times. Behave Yourself won in 1921, Bubbling Over, 1926, Burgo King, 1932 and Brokers Tip, 1933.

Q. How are designs produced on ice rinks so that they are not injured by the skates?

A. In producing designs, the rink is first covered with enough water to make one half inch of ice. On this the designs are painted with a special water paint. The more water is sprayed onto the rink until several inches of ice are produced. Transparency of the ice makes the designs clearly visible.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—The back-stage story of how certain key industries lobbied to cut the heart out of price control is one of the most amazing in the long and turbulent life of the nation's capital. Months ago the campaign was carefully charted and thousands of dollars have been spent in carrying it out.

Three industries spear-headed the campaign—Cotton and Woolen Textiles; the National Association of Automobile Dealers; and the National Retail Dry Goods Association. A lot of other organizations including the National Association of Real Estate Boards did some extremely helpful rooting, but the above three chiefly carried the ball.

The congressmen who acted as their main spokesmen (or in some cases, puppets) were:

1. Senators Thomas of Oklahoma and Bankhead of Alabama who worked hand in glove with the raw cotton bloc and incidentally did some cotton speculating of their own on the side. Eastland of Mississippi also did his part, though not so effectively.

2. Rep. Fred Hartley, New Jersey Republican, who was the unofficial spokesman for the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

3. Rep. Fred Crawford, Saginaw, Mich., Republican, who served as "stooge" for the auto dealers and frankly admitted to newsmen that the auto dealers wrote his OPA amendment. He confessed at first that he didn't know exactly what it meant.

4. Rep. Jesse Wolcott, Port Huron, Mich., Republican, sometimes called the "General Motors Spokesman" in Congress, who introduced the cost-plus-profit amendment to the OPA bill, which according to the OPA makes price control completely unworkable.

5. Rep. Ed Gossett, Wichita Falls, Tex., Democrat, who inserted the de-control amendment for the National Association of Manufacturers, whereby all goods reaching 1940-41 production levels escape further price control. OPA experts say this actually would mean no price control.

—COTTON IS STILL KING—

Of these organized hatchers of price control perhaps the most ramified lobby is that conducted by cotton—with some side help from wool. Most people have the idea that the cotton lobby is supported by cotton farmers, but just the opposite is true. Southern cotton farmers now own only about 8 per cent of their harvested crop. Long ago the great bulk was sold and is now in the hands of speculators, so that farmers will profit almost nothing from the price increases. Even the coming cotton crop still unharvested has been largely bought up.

However, using the "downtrodden" farmer as their battle cry, lobbyists did such an effective job for the cotton and wool industries that their bosses should increase their already lush salaries. Here is the lobbyist rollcall:

1. William Jacobs of the Cotton Manufacturers Association; also president of Presbyterian college, Clinton, S. C., and close to the Cannon Mills. Jacobs is a charming, versatile gentleman who is even vice-president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, and really knows how to win friends and influence people.

Despite his soft-spoken charm, Jacobs did not hesitate to lay down an implied threat to government officials in March that unless the textile industry was guaranteed price increases, textile manufacturers would not produce cloth.

"We'll settle for a flat 15 per cent increase straight across the board, now," he warned. "But if we don't get it, we don't know what we'll ask for later."

—CANNON'S COTTON CAMPAIGN—

2. Another powerful lobbyist is Roy Blake, representing the National Cotton Council of America whose president, Oscar Johnston, operates 50,000 British-owned cotton acres in Mississippi. Blake and Jacobs chiefly represent the big textile mills which have accumulated cotton and want prices increased. Other mills which are short of cotton don't enthuse over increases.

Most powerful personage behind Blake and Jacobs is Charley Cannon of Cannon Towel Fame, probably the wealthiest cotton manufacturer in the country. Cannon has about one year's supply of cotton already on hand, purchased at below parity which was 23 cents a pound. With the price of raw cotton now around 29 cents he can make about 14 cents profit for every yard he sells. The higher the price, the more his profit. No wonder he opposes a price ceiling for cotton!

It was Blake and Jacobs who helped push Senator Bankhead into his alleged probe of the clothing shortage, a probe which didn't go anywhere near the basic fundamentals. Bankhead let his friend Charley Cannon ramble on for hours, saying little, while experts like Professor Gardner Ackley of the University of Michigan were cut short with this query from Bankhead:

"We don't want any testimony from you. You know nothing about economics."

Prof. Ackley, of course, was only one of the top economists of the country and chief of OPA's textile pricing division. Senator Bankhead, however, was only interested in proving one point for which he had called the hearing—the futility of OPA.

It is estimated an umpire behind the plate makes about 200 decisions during a baseball game. Imagine being a big bum that many times!

When a girl keeps a fellow waiting it's usually just a little while.

Extempore speakers, orators, oratorical and dramatic declaimers from ten Upper Peninsula high schools will compete here this afternoon and evening in the regional speech contest of the Michigan High School Forensic Association at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium.

Escanaba high school is eligible for only one event, the extempore speaking, and is represented by Sue Moran. Extempore speakers will choose topics on national, international or state affairs on hour before the contest, which will follow the oratorical declamation event this afternoon.

This afternoon's program will begin at three o'clock and dramatic declaimers will appear first at this evening's program opens at 7:30 o'clock.

Original orators will speak last. Judges of the contest will be Harry B. Ebersole, Gunther C. Meyland and Forest A. Roberts of the faculty of Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette.

Bertrand Henne, Escanaba high school speech coach, is chairman of the program and will present to the contestants, all of whom were district speech contest winners, Webster collegiate dictionaries, which are awarded by the Detroit Free Press. Each dictionary has the contestant's name engraved in gold on its cover and each book contains a special citation page.

Today's regional winners will also be presented with blue and gold wall banners, the gift of the University of Michigan, for their schools.

Presentation of awards will be made by Mr. Henne at the close of the program tonight.

THE VANISHING SHARPTAIL

Will O'Gara, of Wisconsin Rapids, has written a story which is published in the April issue of Natural History Magazine. The title is "The Vanishing Sharptail". It is, in my opinion, one of the best written stories of our sharp-tail grouse which I have ever read.

The five pages required for the story are packed with most interesting observation, facts, on this grand bird of our lake states. The reader little knows the patience required to prepare a story such as this. As a matter of fact, few nature lovers or sportsmen have seen the mating dance of the male sharp-tail grouse.

Long before you are sitting down to breakfast, the sharp-tails gather at their various dancing and booming grounds to do their mating dance before one or more, seemingly indifferent, females. They begin in early April, often when there is still some snow on the ground.

The watcher sits in his blind, hoping that there will be enough light so that his camera will record a small portion of their actions before the birds fly from their are-old dancing grounds. Some days there may be one or two good pictures, but many days there are none.

I have seen the great number of fine pictures which Will O'Gara has taken of these birds, six of which were used in the April issue of Natural History Magazine. I have sat in the blind with "Bill" while he snapped some of them. His work is excellent.

After all those years of observations of nature and of working with nature in field and stream work, Bill has turned to paper-making. To him, papermaking is an art, a problem which interests him more than all his former work with fish, game or forestry.

No one can read his finely written story of the sharp-tail without appreciating his keen observations of this bird and how he puts the facts together so well that even the most disinterested will follow his story to the end.

We hope that Bill will learn that every business man needs a hobby for relaxation. It is our prayer that, while he is devoting every working hour to the paper-making industry, he will give some of his leisure time to nature. After all, paper is made from wood which is one of nature's gifts. An industrialist can be a naturalist and, as a realist, show us a common meeting ground for both.

Veterans and the Resort Business
A great many returned veterans seem to think that, because I write an outdoor column, I should be able to give them advice on how to run a resort business. Many have written or called at my home to ask just where they should build or buy a resort.

I notice a strong tendency among most of them to figure that they will take a good profit and will soon have much money in the bank. I have a hard time convincing them that they must change their ideas about all that imaginary cash in the bank.

Just as a grocery man, a hardware man or any other business man starts in business and makes a "success" of it, so must they regard their venture into the resort business. Money in the bank, is really a joke to the old business man.

He remembers how he kept himself stripped of cash. You look at him when he has brought up a family, has a car and probably a nice home and is regarded as "well to do" by every one in the community. But you know nothing, or care little, about the years and the hard work he put in to get in that position.

Starting in with a small capital, almost every dollar he took from the customer and put in the till, wasn't a dollar to him. A dollar meant only one, two or three cents to him and many of them meant nothing, for there is many a sale made below his cost of doing business.

He was merely the custodian of that dollar only long enough to hurry to the bank so that he could check it out for more stock, for rent, light, heat, taxes and the thousand and one items you will find on any business man's books under that little seven letter word, expense.

If he sold $50,000 that year and "made" $1,500 he was happy, but that $1,500 did not mean money to him. Every cent of it went right back into merchandise so he could offer more goods, more stock to his customers.

While others were having a good time, he and his family denied themselves practically every luxury for many years. Every cent went back into the business, first to build up his stock, next to be able to stand a short or long siege of depression, falling markets or any of the other hazards of business which come as surely as night follows day.

You see him at 50 or 60 and call him well to do. You forget that thousands like him have failed in business or have worked themselves into a poor physical condition and are "through" before their time.

If the young veteran will read the next article, "Money In the Resort Business," it might help clear up some of his ideas on how to start his business.

Amazing New White Cross Plan Safeguards Family's Health - Pays Hospital Bills

WHITE CROSS PLAN STARTS IN LABORATORY. Keeping wage earner working and family healthy is purpose of new White Cross Plan. Medical Director with large staff of consulting specialists offers advice (not treatment) on family health problems.

Four laboratory urinalyses each year, without charge, are part of this great new national health program pioneered by Northern Mutual Casualty Co.

NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION REQUIRED. If you are in good health and not more than 65 years old, you are eligible. Mrs. Lewis writes: "I never dreamed that 4 months later I would find occasion to use it for an illness. Your check for $545 was certainly a great help in paying my hospital bill."

A. JOHNSON, R. R. NO. 7, KALAMAZOO, MICHIGAN, WRITES, "When a person has to have an operation and all you have to do is tell the hospital the name of your insurance company, that certainly is a relief. I, as well as many others, have found Northern Mutual a great help in time of sickness."

NO MATTER HOW UNUSUAL YOUR PERSONAL PROBLEM, Northern Mutual strives to give you up-to-the-minute advice (not treatment) on your particular ailment. Chicago, home of this old established Company (founded in 1907), is the medical center of the midwest. No greater combination of medical specialists and facilities will be found anywhere. The laboratory, for instance, which makes your urinalyses, is probably the largest and best-equipped in the world.

Benefits ordinarily start from first day of disability.

PROVIDES EMERGENCY CASH! It's better to spend money to keep you well than to pay it out in claims. Yet if accident does strike, $250 emergency cash is immediately available. Besides paying cash for hospital room and meals for 100 days, up to $8 per day, surgical fees, X-ray, medicine, etc., Plan pays regular monthly income for 104 weeks for lay-ups due to accidents.

Press, Industry Conduct Community Relations Clinic Here

THE PRESS AND INDUSTRY found much in common at the community relations clinic. Will Russell, business manager of the Iron Mountain News, George Osborn, publisher of the Sault Evening News, and Will Marble, of the Marble Arms company, Gladstone, are shown in this informal picture.

DISCUSSING some interesting angles of the community relations clinic are Phil Clark, of the Shepek Dimension company; Ole Thorsen of the Delta Furniture company, and Roy Overpack, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Frank Lindenthal, business manager of the Escanaba Daily Press, is seated in the foreground.

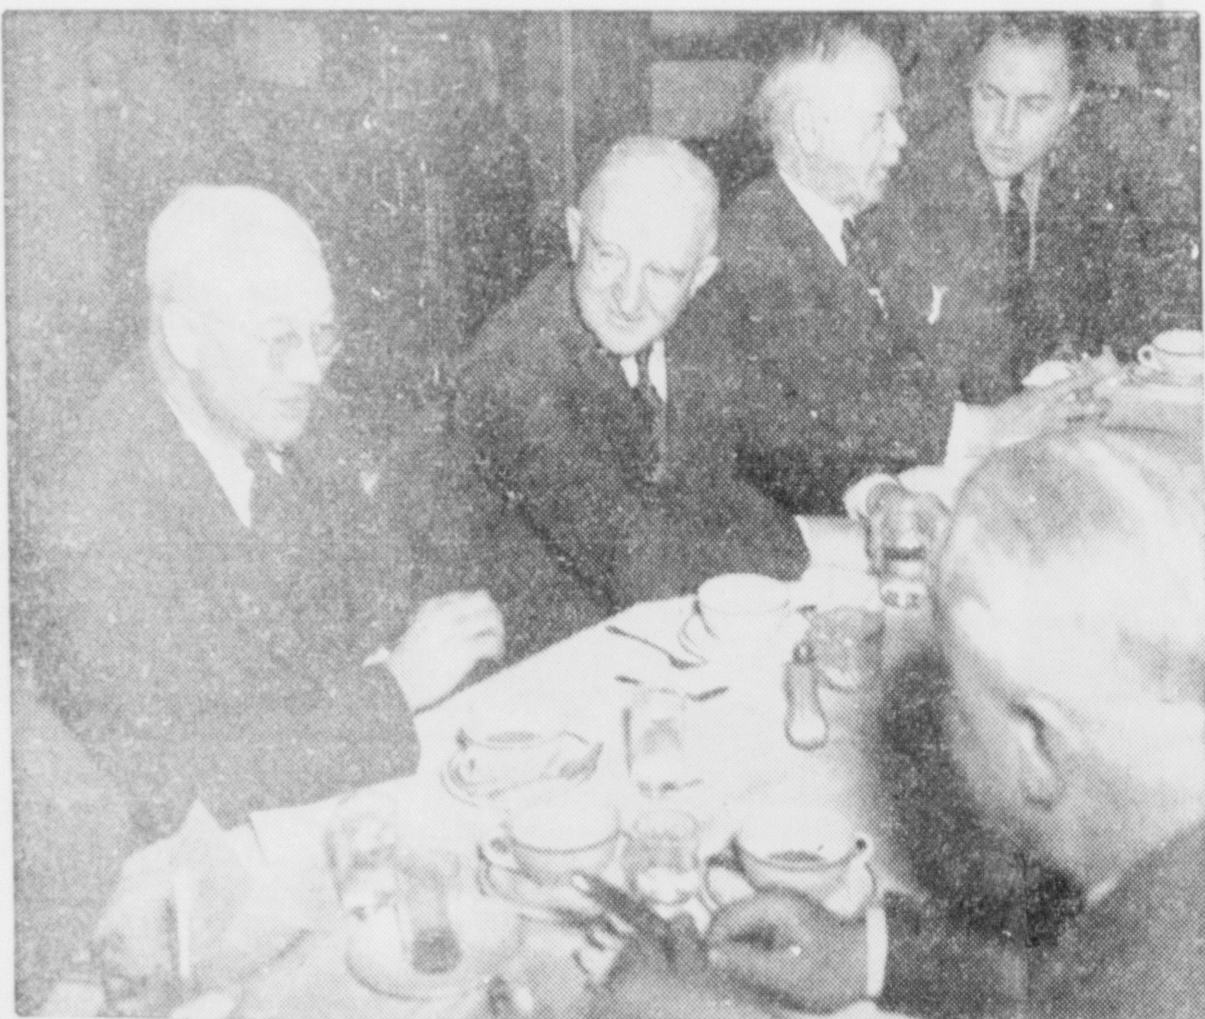

AT THE SPEAKERS' TABLE are pictured Paul Elsberry, partner of Scheerer and Company Chicago, publishers' representative; John

P. Norton, publisher of the Escanaba Daily Press, and A. V. Lund, vice president of the Newton, Ia. Printing company.

THERE WERE HEARTY LAUGHS, too, at the clinic as this picture proves. Ole Thorsen, of the Delta Furniture company George Brown, of

JOBS LIMITED, VETERANS FIND

500 Vets Seeking Work In This Community; Number Growing

Approximately 1550 individuals took advantage of the local U. S. Employment Service facilities during the month of April, according to J. M. Damitz, manager. Included in this total were 1200 veterans, 168 of whom made an initial visit to the office since their release from the armed forces.

A total of 122 persons, of whom 75 were veterans, were referred from this office to discuss job opportunities with local employers. These referrals resulted in 48 individuals securing employment—32 of whom were veterans.

As previously indicated—although there are approximately 1200 veterans registered with the local U. S. Employment Service, only about 500 of this number are seeking work in the community. The remainder of the veterans registered are planning to enter schools and colleges, enter self-employment, or are awaiting calls from their former employers. The majority of applicants available for local employment fall into semi-skilled occupations.

Many veterans and non-veterans are being absorbed by local industry, but serious shortages of essential materials due to strikes and other factors are causing job openings to fall far below the anticipated level.

Employers are urged to list all their job openings with the U. S. Employment Service, so that job opportunities may be discussed with returning veterans and others desiring local work.

Although there are a number of unfilled job openings listed with USES, the majority of them are in the woods industry. Even though the woods industry pays prevailing wages, it is difficult to get workers to accept these jobs because of the nature of the work, the distance from their homes, and other factors.

Many of those who are registered at the local USES live in various outlying communities throughout the county where job opportunities are quite limited. A good percentage of these individuals would be willing to accept work in Escanaba and nearby vicinity were it not for the transportation and housing problem.

Veterans Advised They Can Reinstate Insurance Policies

Veterans who have let their National Service Life Insurance policies lapse may reinstate them without physical examination if they submit a signed statement that they are in as good health as they were at the time of the lapse, according to the local Veterans Administration contact office.

This liberalization of reinstatement privileges will remain in effect until Jan. 1, 1947, and will also apply to any National Service Life Insurance policies that lapse between now and then.

After Dec. 31, 1946, regulations that applied before the recent liberalization will again be effective.

The permanent regulations governing reinstatement require a physical examination if the date of reinstatement is more than six months after the veteran's separation from the service, or more than three months from the date of lapse, whichever is later.

The liberalization, of course, does not affect the requirement regarding payment of premiums. In the case of National Service Life Insurance which has not been converted to a permanent form, only two monthly premiums must accompany the application for reinstatement; in the case of National Service Life Insurance which has been converted, payments which have been missed must be repaid with interest.

It is also pointed out that veterans receiving disability pensions may authorize the Veterans Administration to deduct their National Service Life Insurance from such payments. Veterans who are totally disabled for a period of at least six consecutive months may apply to the Veterans Administration for waiver of premiums on their National Service Life Insurance. Before the granting of the waiver, however, the veteran must continue premium payments. Premiums that have been paid and then waived are refunded.

ORE SHIPPING AT STANDSTILL

Not One Cargo Is Moved
From Escanaba So Far This Year

Not one cargo of iron ore has been shipped down the lakes from Escanaba so far this year, and only one cargo was shipped from the Lake Superior district in April, a fact almost unprecedented in the history of the industry.

Last year to May 1 there had been 560,043 tons of ore shipped from Escanaba. This year there has been none. One steamer, the A. M. Byers of the Reiss Steamship company, has been waiting here for several weeks to take on a cargo of iron ore after unloading a carload of railroad coal.

The only ore shipping so far this season has been out of Duluth, where the vessel William G. Clyde loaded several days ago. No loadings have been made so far at Marquette, where 417,111 tons were shipped during April last year.

Lake shipping officials of Cleveland have reported that iron ore shipments from upper lakes ports have dropped more than 90 per cent this year due to the coal strike, which has seriously affected lakes navigation, and the ore miners' strike.

W. J. McCarty, manager of the Coal & Iron Exchange, said only 64 vessels were operating on Lake Michigan and Lake Erie at the start of the shipping season this year, compared with 270 last year.

The Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported only 652,762 gross tons of iron ore were loaded at American docks in April, 1946, more than 90 per cent less than the 7,235,142 gross tons loaded at the same ports last year.

Duluth and Two Harbors, Minn., were the only ports not inactivated by iron or coal strikes during April, the Lake Superior association said.

Most lake ports are practically out of coal, McCarty said, adding that an ore miner's strike in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin had curbed iron ore shipments and that the coal miners' walkout had

Addison Disease Is Often Caused By Tuberculosis

BY WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The outer portion of the adrenal gland supplies a secretion which helps to control salt sugar, and water metabolism in the body. When too little secretion is produced from this portion of the gland, in Addison's Disease, the patient suffers from weakness, nausea, and vomiting.

These spells can be helped by injections of glucose and salt solution by vein, but in more severe cases extracts of the adrenal gland must be given.

The usual cause of Addison's Disease is tuberculosis of the adrenal gland (only 15 per cent of all cases result from destruction of the gland due to other causes.)

The disease is most apt to occur in men between 30 and 50.

The use of extracts of the adrenal gland and an extra quantity of salt in the diet permit the patient with Addison's Disease to be relatively free of symptoms, although in the past most of the sufferers from this disease led invalids' lives.

Skin Looks Dirty

Friends and relatives of a person stricken with Addison's Disease may be the first to notice that his skin looks dirty. If the condition starts in the summer time, the skin color turns to a rich brown; the fading usual in the fall and winter does not occur, and "ink-spots" freckles remain. The lining of the mouth, the gums, and the tongue are often spotted with dark brown pigment.

Patients with Addison's Disease usually feel fairly well if they consume an extra amount of salt and doca (desoxycorticosterone), a drug which can be injected under the skin, taken by mouth, or sewed under the skin in pellets for a prolonged effect.

Cortin is an extract of the adrenal gland which is used during crises of nausea, vomiting, weakness, and complications, as it is usually more effective than doca under such conditions.

Often Hard to Discern

Addison's Disease is recognized without much difficulty in light-skinned persons, but members of races which normally show excessive color may develop Addison's Disease insidiously.

In Addison's Disease, excessive weight loss may be experienced, and an effort should be made to prevent this. Foods rich in potassium should be avoided; as there is a constant tendency toward dehydration, water should be taken frequently.

Well-treated Addison's Disease victims are kept free of weakness, nausea, and vomiting although the brown skin color may never completely disappear.

Studebaker Brings Out First Postwar Model

A fresh and appealing body design by Raymond Loewy is a family characteristic of all of the new 1947 Studebakers, "first genuine postwar automobile on the market." Fluid, graceful lines are emphasized on this four-door sedan in the Commander series by the extension of passenger compartments out to the former fender lines and the rearward sweep of curved surfaces. Two chassis improvements among a number worked out by Studebaker engineers are self-adjusting brakes and a redistribution of weight that promises to revolutionize conceptions of riding comfort.

Driver's Eyeful of 1947 Studebaker

Aviation's cockpit influence can be recognized from this view of the driver's compartment of the 1947 Studebaker. Markings on the jumbo-sized dials are illuminated at night by non-glare "black light"—first developed for fighter planes during the war. Instruments are grouped for at-a-glance reading through the "maximum vision" steering wheel. Smart "airfoil trim" extends across the dash from the elliptical frame enclosing the instruments,

1947 Studebaker Shows Revolutionary Style

Outstanding among 1947 Studebakers is this radically designed five-passenger Champion coupe. Contour-fit windows replace the upper part of the former rear quarter body panels. Thus, the rear window has been broadened to assure unobstructed rearward vision. Lower bodies and an advanced styling that extends the passenger compartments out to the former fender lines are the creation of Raymond Loewy, internationally famous designer. Mechanically, the cars have been re-engineered from the road up. Two chassis improvements among a number worked out by Studebaker engineers are self-adjusting brakes and a redistribution of weight that promises to revolutionize conceptions of riding comfort.

New Styling... New Comfort... New Safety New Performance... in the New 1947 Studebaker!

Heralded as the first "fully tested, revolutionary new" automobiles in more than five years, 1947 Studebakers were announced to the public today.

"These cars have been re-engineered from the road up," said a statement from Paul G. Hoffman, president of the company. "In bodies and chassis, they take full advantage of design and production advancements which accumulated during the war period. As the first genuine postwar automobiles, they embody progress in all major aspects of motoring. But from the standpoints of appearance, roadability and safety they set entirely new standards."

HIGHSPOTS OF THE 1947 STUDEBAKERS:

STYLING—Speed-line contours. Bodies much lower. Passenger compartment much broader. Wide-vision windows. Fenders absorbed into bodies. Air-foil grilles. Richly tailored interiors.

SAFETY—Self-adjusting, full-power brakes. Phenomenally increased vision. Stronger, box-section frames. Non-glare, black light "cockpit" instrument illumination. Greater sureness and ease of handling.

RIDING COMFORT—"Cradled weight." Lower center of gravity. Floating spring mounts. Softer springs. Spacious interior dimensions.

Although power trains remain fundamentally the same in principle, the performance of the cars has been bettered by many chassis refinements that also add to durability and smoothness. Connecting rod bearings are new and of an interchangeable type. A short, two-section propeller shaft replaces the conventional elongated member. New wide-rim and wider tires reduce tire wear. In a re-arrangement of power plant accessories, engineers have taken a leaf from their experience with the war-renowned Weasel, which concentrated the plant in a minimum of space. Additionally, many engine accessories have been re-located for increased servicing convenience.

Improvements in riding characteristics of the new cars are described as "revolutionary." These are due to a combination of advances—notably, re-distribution of weight, re-designed frames, revised spring mountings, and softer springs. As part of the scientific re-distribution of weight, both the passenger compartment and the engine have been moved forward. The center of engine weight is now cushion-mounted virtually over the front spring suspension. Passengers are cradled in the zone where road irregularities will be least felt. "Pitch" has been reduced to a vanishing point. Better lateral and longitudinal stability enhances comfort and the feeling of confidence.

The new braking system is an important "first" in transportation. It obviates the necessity for brake shoe adjustments. It assures drivers of firm, quick stops throughout the life of the brake lining. The secret lies in a small mechanism that moves the brake shoe outward in steps of .005 of an inch. This is a far finer adjustment than can be effected manually.

The body design, wind-tunnel tested at the famed University of Michigan aeronautical laboratory, is the creation of Raymond Loewy, internationally known designer. It skillfully combines functionalism and beauty. An astute application of curved windows and rounded metal surfaces and a smaller frontal area diminishes wind resistance at highway cruising speeds.

By extending bodies outward to the former fender lines and moving passenger compartments forward, the design engineers achieved a dual advantage. Seats have been amazingly broadened, in some instances as much as ten inches. Further, the subordination of fenders has imparted a moulded unity of line never previously achieved in automotive design.

Height of the cars is only a fraction over five feet, which enhances over-all beauty lines. Head room has not been sacrificed. There is markedly more knee room in front seats. The center of gravity, a vital element in driving safety, is lower. This results from dropping the mid-section of the frame.

At the same time, by moving the passenger compartment 11 inches further forward to a position 19½ inches ahead of the rear axle, seats have been re-located close to the center of longitudinal balance. Re-distribution of weight, both vertically and horizontally, has been a prime influence in the notable improvement in the quality of the ride and stability.

An immense increase in visibility is apparent in all body types. It is especially striking in the five-passenger coupes. In this body the windshield and rear window offer double the glass area of the earlier series. Drivers and passengers can obtain unobstructed views in all directions. Champion windshield area has been increased 144 square inches; rear window area in sedans, 239 square inches.

Body detail shows a careful regard for convenience and beauty. Outside door handles are of a new pull-to type. Interior hardware is designed for minimum protuberance. A pistol-grip parking brake is located in the center just below the dash and adjacent to the ignition key. A new angle in the steering column promises less fatigue on long trips. Seats are fully adjustable to the stature of drivers. Rich Canada and Bedford upholstery cloth, deep cushioning and arm rests on all doors are among other features.

The aircraft influence on instrument paneling is pronounced. Unique "cockpit" lighting illuminates jumbo-sized dials. This lighting, now known as "black light," was developed during the war when scientists took over the study of aircraft instrument panel glare. By a new light and the treatment of markings on the instruments, a luminosity was perfected that gave no glare. Application of this innovation to automobiles assures safer, more restful night-time driving.

Both Champions and Commanders are offered in the 1947 series. Supplementing two and four-door sedans and business coupes is an entirely new treatment of five-passenger coupes, convertibles and a Champion station wagon. A special four-door, long-wheelbase Commander, known as the Land Cruiser, is another innovation in the Studebaker line.

Champions and Commanders are again available in two series. In prewar years these were called "Custom" and "Deluxe." The two series being produced for 1947 are known as "Deluxe" and "Regal Deluxe."

The 1947 Deluxe series of all Champion and Commander models are comparable in equipment, appointments and styling to the Studebaker's Deluxe series of former years, while the 1947 Regal Deluxe series surpass in style and luxury treatment any standards heretofore found outside the highest price field.

In re-distributing the weight, the L-head, six-cylinder Champion engine has been moved nine inches further forward over the front suspension. It develops 80 horsepower at 4,000 RPM. Commander engines develop 94 horsepower at 3,600 RPM. These power plants are also of L-head, six-cylinder design.

Two advantages are manifest from the two-section propeller shaft design. The two sections meet at an angle in a rubber-mounted amidship bearing in the center of the frame, obviating the floor tunnel in the rear compartment that would be required with a single shaft. In operation, the "whip" commonly associated with elongated propeller shafts has been avoided.

The box-section frame is one of the strongest ever produced by the industry. Not only does it have extreme rigidity, especially in a longitudinal direction, but its shape is new. Kick-ups at both the front and rear ends make possible a low, flat mid-section.

The planar suspension, which Studebaker pioneered, gets re-engineered, softer, more efficient springs and a revised front mounting that enhances riding comfort. In earlier design, the spring served as a structural member. The ends of the laterally mounted springs were anchored to shackle pins. With the new type, spring ends "float" on rubber cushions. The weight of the body and engine receives the full benefit of spring flexibility.

Self-adjusting, self-centering brakes are an important contribution to motoring. The action is due to two new and related mechanisms, the self-centering mounting and the contact control. A wedge-shaped arm presses against the eccentric as a graphite bronze contact plug, placed in the surface of the lining area on the front shoe, makes contact with the brake drum. The contact device controls a spring mounting which moves the shoe outward in steps of .005 of an inch as the lining wears. The new mechanism not only takes care of brake shoe adjustments automatically, but the constantly corrected clearance enhances safety. As an aid to even greater driving security braking areas have been increased.

The Champion's broader wheel rims and 15x5.50 tire sizes (15 x 6.50 on the Commanders) offer distinct benefits—less tire wear and more effective road contacts. The new tires have seven ribs, whereas former models had six-ribbed tires.

Program At Meet

Music Week was observed by the members of the Kiwanis club yesterday with an outstanding program of vocal and instrumental music.

During the luncheon, the Escanaba high school string ensemble, directed by Albert Shomoto, played several numbers. Following the luncheon Toni Giansanti, Escanaba high school student, gave a brief talk, describing the importance of music in the schools and in our national life. Was Aboard Ship
Grounded By Storm

The distress of the Pacific ocean liner, Dick Lykes, when grounded in a recent typhoon, received but scant mention in news dispatches of the area, but it was a matter of grave concern to one local man, Donald Schuetter, because he was aboard the ship.

Lykes was a member of the crew of the boat which was off Panama when the storm struck. The ship was run aground off Saluta Point, about 18 miles from Cristobal and was hard and fast throughout the night and part of the day.

With the aid of navy tugs, the ship was refloated and continued on its journey without serious damage.

Schuetter is now in the far Pacific, stationed at Manila.

BAND SCORES
AT MARQUETTEIs Given High Rating
At School Band
Festival

The Manistique high school band made a very creditable showing at the Upper Peninsula Band Festival held at Marquette Saturday afternoon.

While participation in this festival was not in any sense a competition, each of the 16 bands represented at the meet deemed it to its interest to make the best showing possible so as to rate a high score for the effort.

Manistique was given an A rating for appearance, discipline and spirit, and B rating for technique, intonation and instrumentation. The brass section of the band was accorded particular praise.

Of the local musicians, Ray Norberg, who performed several solo numbers in the morning session, was rated among the most talented and best trained. He was given an A rating in everything he did. The music judge expressed himself as much impressed with Ray's work.

In the evening sixteen members of the Manistique band participated in a program in which picked members of other bands formed a massed organization.

Judging the festival music was E. C. Moore, director of public school music at Appleton, Wis. Prof. Moore is also instructor in music at Lawrence college in that city.

An innovation in the evening's program was a flute duet by Prof. Moore and one of his assistants at Lawrence, who presented their numbers on solid gold flutes. And it was, indeed, golden music, said Prof. Joseph Giovanni, local band leader in commenting on that particular number.

A garment dyed with natural indigo, a vat color, was found in a tomb in Thebes, where it has lain since about 3,000 B. C.

Huge Speckled
Trout Caught In Indian River

Paul Perry, 619 Range street, is a steady sort of a chap, but he was still shaking with excitement on Monday when he brought in a trout he had caught the day before to enter in the Daily Press fishing contest.

It was a speckled trout that measured 22 inches in length, 10½ inches in girth and had a dressed weight of 3 and ¾ pounds.

He caught it Sunday noon while fishing in Indian River. He used simple equipment and angle worms for bait. Just whereabouts on Indian River he came upon this beauty he refuses to say but admits that it was in a deep pool in a bend of the river—a likely place he spotted a long time ago.

HIGH SCHOOL
IS HONOREDStandard Is Approved
By Association Of Colleges

Carl Olson, principal of Manistique high school, received word Monday that Manistique high school has been placed on the list of secondary schools approved by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the action having recently been taken at the annual business meeting of the association in Chicago.

Such rating, which the school has enjoyed for years, gives the school a rating on a par with the best high schools of the area. Graduates from Manistique high school, wishing to enter college in Michigan, Wisconsin or Illinois, may do so, if the local school recommends, without having to take entrance examinations.

Many high schools do not have this rating and the honor is therefore noted with pardonable pride by local school officials.

Yanks And Dodgers Go To Bat In Court Against Mexican Raiders

PASQUEL CALLS IT 'RIDICULOUS'

Ban On Moguls Below Border Sought In N. Y. Tribunal

BY GAYLE TALBOT
New York, May 6 (AP)—Organized baseball goes to the mat with the raiding Mexican Leaguers in New York supreme court at 10 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow, when the New York Yankees will attempt to slap a legal half-Nelson on the boys from below the border.

President Larry MacPhail of the Yanks will seek a permanent court order restraining the Mexican League and its agents from tempting Yankee players to jump their present contracts.

Bernardo Pasquel, vice president of the Mexican League, who has been here for two weeks trying to sign up such ranking stars as Phil Rizzuto and George Stinewiss of the Yankees and Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has charged MacPhail with "making a ridiculous move."

The Yankee president on Saturday obtained a court order temporarily restraining Jorge Pasquel, Mexican League president; his brother, Bernardo; Carl Bazz, Mario Lousac and John Ohlrahn, named as agents, and Claire Rutherford (Rud) Rennie, baseball writer of the New York Herald Tribune, from approaching Yankee players.

The "John Ohlrahn" named in the court order identified himself today as Ralph Ober, part time lawyer and teacher of journalism who writes a daily column for the "Sports Bulletin" published in New York. Ober said he considered that he had been criminally libeled by MacPhail and planned to bring court action within two weeks.

He said he had never approached a ball player on behalf of the Pasquels.

Rennie returned today from Cincinnati and refrained from additional comment pending tomorrow's hearing. He said yesterday that he was "never more surprised" in his life than when he was named in MacPhail's order, and "emphatically" denied that he was or had been associated with the Mexican League.

PLAYERS LURED BY HEFTY CASH

Temporary Restraining Order Issued By Federal Judge

St. Louis, May 6 (AP)—Federal Judge Ruben M. Hulen issued a temporary restraining order today enjoining Jorge and Bernardo Pasquel of the Mexican Baseball League from "unlawfully interfering" with the Brooklyn Dodgers by persuading Brooklyn players to break their contracts.

Also named in the restraining order were Mario Lousac, Robert James, and Ray J. Gillespie, the latter identified as being associated with the St. Louis Star-Times.

Judge Hulen set May 14 for hearing on the injunction, filed by Jacob M. Lashly, St. Louis attorney, on behalf of the Dodgers ball club.

The club asked for a permanent injunction and in a companion complaint asked the court to enter judgment for damages allegedly incurred "by reason of unlawful acts."

The request for an injunction said the Pasquels "are supplied with large sums of money and have determined to make raids upon baseball players in the United States by inducing them to play professional baseball in the Republic of Mexico and to break contracts of personal employment with other professional clubs in the United States."

One Contract Broken
The suit said all the respondents were residents of Mexico except Gillespie, a member of the St. Louis Cardinals staff, who contacted Mike Owen of the Dodgers in St. Louis before the star catcher joined the Mexican League.

Owen was listed in the injunction request as one player who broke his American contract at the insistence of the Pasquels and was identified as a player of "unique and outstanding performance whose services were invaluable to the Dodgers for a united team and as an attraction to the public."

The Dodgers received bona fide offers from other American professional ball clubs for more than $25,000 for Owen, the petition said. It added that Gillespie and others approached Owen on April 1, 1946, and "succeeded in having him breach his contract, leave the United States and go to Mexico City, thus causing the loss of the cash value of his contract."

The petition asserted the Mexican group planned to make offers to Mike Sandlock, Peevce Reese, Babe Herman and Cookie Lavagetto.

In New York Bernardo Pasquel said he had no immediate comment to make on the Dodgers' action in St. Louis but indicated he would have a statement for the press later in the evening.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderson

The Escanaba Bears baseball club was dealt a bad hand in the weather shuffle Sunday and their scheduled opener in the NWM league with Channing had to be postponed. Although it quit raining early Sunday morning, the diamond was badly soaked with little hope that it would be in playing condition by game time. Also the weather was unseasonably cold, with a heavy overcast that threatened more rain. Channing reported two inches of snow there. It has not yet been determined when the postponed game will be made up.

The Bears' booster game has been moved back a week and will be played with Crystal Falls here next Sunday afternoon. All tickets sold for the Channing game will be honored at the Crystal Falls game next Sunday. Manager Schwalbach has ordered nightly practice sessions again this week but when the team gets in to tip top shape, practice will be held only two nights a week. Further work also is scheduled on the diamond this week and by Sunday, it is expected that the playing field will be in perfect condition. Some more clay will be added this week and then rolled, but before that is done patches of grass that have sprung up will be removed.

Curly Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, has indicated that he will not go to court to force Ted Fritsch to play with the Green Bay football team next fall. Fritsch has signed a contract to play with Cleveland in the All America league, even though he is technically, at least "owned" by the Packers. Fritsch had not signed a 1946 contract with the Packers prior to jumping to the All America league, but his 1945 contract gave the Packers an option on his service and gave the Green Bay club until Aug. 1 to renew the contract.

The football leagues are faced with the necessity of getting together to iron out their player problems. The current situation in which the National league chooses to ignore the All America league can lead only to confusion and ill will. In the end, the bitterness that is being engendered will prove harmful to professional football itself. In clinging to the attitude that it has professed thus far, the National league is doing the greatest harm to its own clubs. Because it virtually constitutes a license for the All America teams to pirate players from the National league.

Hit and Miss—Rock and Perkins basketball teams were jointly honored at a banquet last week held by the Rock Lions club. Hon. James Beckman, mayor of Marquette, was the guest speaker. Virtually all Upper Peninsula communities have reorganized their softball leagues, with league play starting this week. Most of the teams are expected to affiliate with the Upper Peninsula Softball association.

GRIN RETURNS
Philadelphia, May 6 (AP)—There was a little more lilt in Manager Steve O'Neill's Irish tenor today after his Detroit Tigers snapped a seven-game losing streak.

Grimacing cheerfully, the man who piloted the Tigers to the world's championship last year predicted: "We'll be up there at the finish."

The Bengals had been soundly trounced by the front-running New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox before coming to Philadelphia to meet the Athletics yesterday.

Bobo Newsom handcuffed the Tiger power hitters in the opener of a twin bill for a 10-2 victory, stretching the Tiger losing skein to seven.

But the Tigers fought back in the nightcap, overcoming a three-run lead helped by Hank Greenberg's homer and again coming from behind to win the game 5-4.

"My team hasn't been hitting," O'Neill remarked. "In baseball things have a way of evening themselves up and I'm not overly concerned about my team—yet."

"To me," he went on, "it looks like a four-team race between our team, the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians."

RAIN WASHES BEARS' OPENER

Channing Game Is Postponed; Crystal Falls Here Sunday

Their league opening game with the Channing Railroaders postponed Sunday because of rain, cold and wet grounds, the Escanaba Bears will make a belated entry into the Northern Wisconsin Michigan baseball circuit here next Sunday, May 12, with Crystal Falls providing the opposition.

Manager John Schwalbach announced yesterday that all booster game tickets sold for the Channing game will be honored next Sunday at the Crystal Falls game, which has been designated the club's booster game in view of the postponement of the Channing game.

The rain which started Saturday noon did not let up until well past midnight, with the result that the clay portion of the infield, including the batter's box and pitcher's hill and the outer part of the infield, was a smear of gumbo. At ten a. m. it was decided to postpone the game because of the condition of the playing field and the fact that the weather was intensely cold. Further rain also was indicated at that time.

plete the gambling investigation, and the investigation of other matters before the grand jury," Judge Coash declared.

Lyon, who is 53, retired on a pension Dec. 15. He joined the state police as a trooper in 1917, became a captain in 1923, and superintendent of the uniform division, deputy commissioner and commanding officer of the First district in 1935.

Today's announcement was the first break in the silence which has surrounded grand jury activities since March 8, when Judge Coash dismissed Sigler and appointed Foster, as an indirect result of allegations by the senate grand jury investigating committee of "irregular use of grand jury funds" by Sigler. RHEUMATISM

Arthritis-Neuritis-Sciatica
Treated by New Modern Non-Surgical Methods

If you suffer from the agonizing pains of these diseases and have tried dozens of remedies and they all have failed... then learn today about a new, trustworthy treatment method that has helped thousands to new health.

The first principle of this new treatment method is to go directly to the cause of your suffering and start the removal of the poisons from your system. Drugs and medicines that give temporary relief from your aches and pains will not do one bit of good toward relieving the cause of your troubles.

Pain and distress are nature's warnings that something is radically wrong with your system... something if let go may lead to serious complications that may result in permanent injury.

In response to thousands who have written to them about their famous methods of helping chronic sufferers to better health, the Ball Clinic has prepared an AMAZING FREE BOOK entitled "Rheumatism and Its Kindred Diseases." This highly informative book tells how for over 20 years this new treatment method has corrected many serious basic conditions and troubles.

It tells how you too may find comforting relief, new health and new outlook on life. There is no obligation. This instructive book may save you years of untold misery. Write today to BALL CLINIC, DEPT. 8615, Excelsior Springs, Mo.

which Judge Coash has issued since he became grand juror last October, succeeding Judge Leland W. Carr when the latter was appointed to the state supreme court. The last previous indictment resulting from the investigation of graft in state government came in June, 1945, when Judge Carr indicted Frank D. McKay, Grand Rapids Republican, and seven others on liquor conspiracy charges. McKay and four co-defendants who stood trial were acquitted in February.

FIRE KILLS 15,000 CHICKS

Houghton—A large barn, used as a brooder house, three small storage sheds and 15,000 baby chickens were destroyed by fire at the Manderfield farm on M-26 two miles south of Houghton and Matt N. Manderfield, manager of the farm, estimated the loss at about $10,000 partially covered by insurance. The Hurontown fire department made a quick response to the alarm, but was unable to save the main building where the fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered. The department used three streams of water from a hydrant connected with the Houghton-Hancock water line which passes close to the Manderfield farm. The cause of the fire is unknown.
